

UK MEN PLEDGES MUST REGISTER IN DEAN'S OFFICE

Monday and Tuesday Are Set by Interfraternity Group for Recording

ACTION IS NECESSARY TO HOLD PLEDGESHIP

New Rule Adopted by Council
Governs All U. K. Social Fraternities

Monday and Tuesday, January 8 and 9, have been set for registration of all fraternity pledges at the office of the Dean of Men. The new pledge registration cards will be ready at that time and no student of the University will be considered officially pledged until his card has been properly filled out in the presence of the officers of the Interfraternity council and has been filed in the Dean's office.

This registration, required by the new rushing rules which were adopted December 9, reads, "No student is officially pledged until he has signed a pledge registration card and has filed it with the Dean of Men."

The cards will remain there and will not be removed from that office. Should a pledge or a fraternity wish to break a pledgeship, either the pledge or the president of that fraternity must report to the Dean's office and state the reason for the break on the card.

Second semester rushing will begin on the first day of registration, February 1, but no pledge badge shall be worn by any student unless he has been previously pledged, until 8 p. m. of the seventh day of regular class work.

Men who have been pledges of fraternities but whose pledgeship has been broken, either by the pledge or the fraternity, will not be eligible to take the pin of another fraternity until 30 days after a report of the break has been made in the Dean's office and recorded on the pledge's card.

Due to the resignation of William Conley as treasurer at the meeting held Monday at the Kappa Alpha house, William Gotschall, Sigma Chi, was elected by acclamation to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the school year.

BANQUET DATE IS CHANGED

The Alumni banquet given to mid-year graduates each year by the University Alumni association and the Lexington Alumni club will be held at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, January 24, instead of January 25, as announced in the Tuesday's edition of The Kernel. Wayland Rhodes will preside, and Judge William Rogers Clay, of the Court of Appeals, will be the principal speaker.

JOHNSON'S TEAM TO PLAY TONIGHT

U. K. Kittens to Meet West Virginia Five Coached by Former Wildcat
Basketeer

GAME IS IN ALUMNI GYM

By NORMAN GARLING

Lexington basketball fans again will be allowed the privilege of getting a glimpse of Ellis Johnson, former Wildcat basketball star, when he returns to the Alumni gym tonight, with his Williamson, West Virginia, high school basketball team to invade the Kittens' lair.

Johnson, a former all-Southern player, was mentioned on many all-American teams. From present indications Coach Johnson will bring with him a basketball squad strong in all points of the game. Their passing and floor work is done with adept preciseness, and their basket eyes are accurate. The Kittens can be expected to have their hands full when they encounter these lads from West Virginia.

The yearling squad has been working out rather strenuously during the past week for this "invasion," although their work has not been of the same caliber that it was before the vacation.

In their scrimmage with the Varsity last Saturday they were somewhat sluggish and slow in their passing, and their shooting was inaccurate according to former standards.

Tonight's game will be the second of a three-game schedule for this week. Tomorrow night the Kittens will journey to Augusta, Kentucky, to engage Johnny Wooden's all-stars in what, from all indications, will be a one-sided fracas.

Wooden, a former all-American player from Purdue, has grouped around him a phalanx of players who were either all-American or of all-American mention, and who no doubt play in a manner that would be a credit to many professional teams in the country.

There will be a slight admission charge of 25 cents tonight to those who have student books to defray the expenses of the Williamson squad's journey to Lexington.

New Music Course Will Be Offered

Prof. Lampert Announces
New Class to Be Held
Second Semester

Prof. Carl Lampert, head of the Department of Music, announced yesterday, that the department is installing a new course in music at the beginning of the second semester. The course is Music 45a and b, and is titled "Organization and Method and Material of the Symphony Orchestra."

According to Professor Lampert, the course is really a junior symphony orchestra, and is organized with the purpose of preparing members for work with larger philharmonic groups. It will also serve as a laboratory basis for work such as orchestral management, orchestra directing, method and material for larger orchestras; and as a laboratory for those students who write compositions for orchestras. Every possible practical phase from the standpoint of organization and musicianship will be represented in the course.

The course will be under the instruction of Professor Lampert and Alexander Capurso. The classes will meet on Thursday from 3 to 5 p. m., and is open to all students of the University. One credit will be given after the consent of Professor Lampert has been granted for entrance.

Loan Would Be Paid After Building Becomes Self- Supporting

Members of Omicron Delta Kappa met with President McVey, yesterday afternoon, and passed a set of resolutions requesting the Board of Trustees to apply for sufficient funds from the Public Works Administration to erect and furnish a Student Union building. A committee will be appointed to present the resolutions to the Board of Trustees at their meeting at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday in the President's office.

The chief hitch in the plans for the Student Union building has been the difficulty in securing funds with which to pay the annual amortization fee on the investment. The plan for securing funds, set forth in the resolutions, is the assessment of two dollars yearly upon each student for membership in the Student Union Building association which will provide all the privileges of the building and the swimming pool.

"Be it resolved: 'That we, the members of Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity, firm in the belief that we know the sentiments of the student body of the University of Kentucky, respectfully request that the Board of Trustees of the University of Kentucky make application to the Public Works Administration for funds sufficient to erect and furnish a Student Union building on the University of Kentucky campus.'

"It is our conviction that the debt incurred by the erection of this building can be amortized over a period of years that will satisfy the basis for repayment of this loan. We submit herewith a financial prospectus which shows what we believe to be a conservative estimate of the income that will be derived from such a building.

"We believe that the student body will vote to pay a fee of $2.00 per semester for membership to the Union Building association which will provide all the privilege of the building and the swimming pool.

"We urgently request the Board of Trustees to give immediate attention to this resolution so that plans for the erection of the Student Union building may be completed at once.

"Be it further resolved: that we, the members of Omicron Delta Kappa signing this resolution, pledge our best efforts toward raising funds and maintaining student interest until this building is erected and paid for."

Physics Fraternity Holds Initiation

Lambda chapter of Sigma Pi Sigma, national honorary physics fraternity, held initiation for five new members last week in the Physics building. Dr. R. H. Spahr, director of instruction at the General Motors Institute of Technology and one of the initiates, was the principal speaker at the initiation banquet which followed at the Tea Cup Inn. Other initiates were Edward S. Ames, Eugene W. Cowley, J. Calvin Gramer, and Stanford T. Neal. Sigma Pi Sigma was founded at Davidson college in December, 1921, and since that time has installed 26 chapters. The local chapter was installed at the University May 15, 1930.

Strollers Discuss Plans for Future

Dramatic Circle Will Give
Series of One-Act Plays
Next Semester

At the Stroller meeting Wednesday afternoon in White hall, plans for the production of a series of one-act plays were discussed; the members also decided to order several full-length plays so that a choice for the spring production might be made.

The dramatic circle plans to start these plays at the beginning of the second semester. All bona fide Stroller members and eligibles in the organization will be allowed to participate in the one-act productions. Those taking part in these productions will be judged by Prof. Cass Robinson, Stroller faculty advisor, and another dramatic critic. Those members and eligibles who are interested in properties, lighting, make-up, and other forms of stage craft will be given a chance to show their talent in these short plays. The best talent not only in stage craft, but also in acting will be used in the spring production, which will be either a musical comedy or a revue.

Worm Club Hop Fund Will Go to Student Building

By DAVID SALYERS
Dance, Worms, Dance!
Where? Patterson hall! When? Right this afternoon, 4 to 6! Who? Everybody and anybody! Come and dance with the Worms!

Here's the dope! There is now existing on this campus an illustrious society known as the Worm club, founded one dark rainy afternoon last fall by a select group of persons. This organization has now increased its membership to 27 (count 'em) members, each one a different kind of worm. There are book worms, activity worms, society worms, and even a few Lubricus Terrestris (earth-worms to you). Including some plain old worms.

The organization does many and varied things, but one of its chief aims is boosting the Student Union Building fund. Therefore, be it known that this club will wiggle, push, crawl, or what have you, to the recreation room of Patterson hall, (with a few thousand others, they hope) to dance, dance, and dance, and perhaps sit out a few, for the purpose of raising money so that a Student Union Building of the students, by the students, and for the students shall be built and never perish from this campus.

And, best of all, Johnny Vance and his Masters of Melody will be there playing for you at the good old pre-er-c-o-u-p-l-e.

Won't you join them?

"Current Events" Is Program Topic

J. Frank Adams, managing editor of The Kernel, will be the student speaker on a broadcast which will be given today from 1:15 until 1:30 p. m. from the University extension studios of WHAS. "Current Phases of Present Day Legal Problems," is the title of a talk which will be presented by Leer Buckley during the same period.

This will be the second weekly broadcast period devoted to current events. Each week at this time a citizen of Lexington and a student from the University will present short talks.

The first student address, at this hour, was presented last week by Wesley Carter, editor of The Kernel.

Many Departments Assist Federal Recovery Project

Series of Legislation Talks
Are Chief Factor of Assistance

Many departments of the University are lending their technical services to the government in its recovery program, a census of the institution has revealed. These services have taken the form of clerical, directional, and interpretative functions.

Chief among the interpretative aids was the series of talks on "The Recovery Legislation and its Significance," sponsored jointly by the College of Commerce, the Lexington Board of Commerce, and the International Affairs class of the Women's club of the University. Six weekly talks constituted the series, and the speakers included Dr. Frank L. McVey, Dr. Edward West, Dr. Lucian H. Carter, Dr. Harry Best, Prof. Rodman Sullivan, Dean Thomas P. Cooper, and Prof. James W. Martin. More than 1,000 citizens of Lexington and nearby communities heard talks in this series.

Further information regarding the government's plans to end the depression has been broadcast from the University radio studios of WHAS by speakers from the commerce and agriculture colleges.

The technical aid of the Department of Civil Engineering was called upon in the consumption of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey work in Kentucky. Prof. Daniel V. Terrel, head of the department, has been appointed official head of the work, and under his supervision the clerical, computation, and field work will be carried out. Offices for this project which is being carried out through the Civil Works administration have been established in the Civil Engineering building.

Dr. John W. Manning, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Prof. W. S. Webb, and Prof. James W. Martin have been appointed visiting consultants in the work of the Tennessee Valley authority and have already conferred with Dr. Floyd W. Reeves, personnel director. Dr. E. Z. Palmer will spend the next few weeks working under the bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, in supervising the collection of manufacturing statistics for the year over a large portion of the south.

Edward W. Rannels, head of the Department of Art, is chairman of the committee which is administering the Public Works of Art project under the CWA. Five Lexington artists and two assistants are now employed in this work.

A four-day conference on education programs for the unemployed, sponsored by the state Department of Education, was held at the University, January 2 to 5. This meeting, the first of its kind to be held in Kentucky, was called by Homer W. Nichols, director of the division of special education in the state Department of Education. Two sessions were held daily, and approximately 100 persons attended each session.

The College of Agriculture and Agricultural Experiment station, in addition to their regular extension and experimental work, have been made available for administration of the adjustment projects of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration of the Federal Government. (Continued on Page Four)

Money and Caldwell Are Contest Winners

Forty-five Students in Advertising Class Compete for Prizes

Student winners in an advertising contest conducted in the Psychology of Advertising and Selling class have just been announced. Harold S. Money won the first prize of $4.50; Kenneth Caldwell, the second prize of $2.25; and Herman Wyant received honorable mention.

The contest was judged by representatives of Small, Kleppner, Seifer, national advertising agency in New York city. Forty-five students in the class submitted plans for an advertisement of Vapex, distributed by E. Fougera and company who sponsored the contest. Approximately 1,000 students in 45 schools took part. Each advertisement was critiqued individually. In announcing the winners here officials of the company commented: "We were very favorable impressed by the high calibre of the papers submitted—a tribute to the way in which advertising is being taught today."

Thirty-two girls have been entered in the contest to represent the various sororities and independents. Required Course Planned for '34 Cheer Team Men

Candidates for the University cheering team for next fall will be required to take a course in tumbling in order to be eligible as cheer leader tryouts, according to a plan which was approved at a meeting of Suky circle Tuesday afternoon.

The course will be offered by the physical education department and will be taught by C. W. Hackensmith. Classes will be held for a period of six weeks and will not carry University credit. Three cheer leader candidates who are eligible to take this class are Fred Fugazzi, Allen Peter Reininger, and Charles Cox. WILDCATS LEAVE FOR GAMES WITH VOLS, SEWANE

Big Blue Will Encounter
Teams of Tennessee and Sewanee

TEN MEN OF SQUAD
INVADE SOUTHLAND

Tilt with Volunteers Expected to Be Harder of Two Court Games

The undefeated Wildcat basketball team boarded the old Green coach of the Southern railway at 9 o'clock last night for their second invasion of the Southland. Ten players made the trip led by Coach Adolph Rupp, and accompanied by Trainer Frank Mann and Student Manager Carey Burnett.

Two games will be played on this trip, both in Tennessee. Friday night they will engage the Sewanee quintet and Saturday night the powerful Tennessee Vols. Sewanee should be taken easily, although past performances indicate that they will put up a hard fight. Tennessee, with the best team they have had in five years, will be the real battle of the expedition.

Comparative scores of games played earlier this season do not hold when one attempts to forecast the score of a Kentucky game, due to the tremendous fight put up by the opposition in attempting to gain the greatest single basketball honor in the South—namely, to "knock off" Kentucky.

"Racehorse" Davis went along with the team but is not expected to start either game, although he may see plenty of service in the Tennessee game. In the two practice sessions in which Davis participated since returning to school, he showed the bad effects of almost a month's lay-off. "Frenchy" DeMolay is rapidly recovering from his illness and is expected to play a considerable part of the time; although his understudy Lewis, will get plenty of action.

Other players who made the trip are: Anderson, Potter, Jerome, Settle, Tucker, Lawrence, and "Big" Davis.

Scabbar and Blade Will Hold Initiation

Scabbar and Blade, national honorary military fraternity will hold an initiation Tuesday night, January 16, in the Armory for the following men: Ernest Jones, Bardstown; Paul Cullen, Maysville; Jack Watt, Louisville; Bert McDowell, Nicholasville; Fred Dye, Newport; G. C. Thompson and Harry Traynor, Lexington.

James Bishop and Lucian Congleton have been selected at the meeting as delegates to the fifth corps area Scabbar and Blade conference which is to be held in Columbus, Ohio, February 2, 3, and 4. Captain Clyde Grady, advisor of the fraternity, and several other members will accompany the delegates to the meeting.

Plans also were made for the awarding of a cup to the outstanding basic military student, Lucien Congleton, president of the fraternity, presided at the meeting.

CONTEST DATE IS SET BY OFFICIALS

Finals in State-Wide Meet
Will Be Held January 18, in University High School Auditorium

Eleven high school students, representing as many Kentucky districts, will compete in the discussion contest. They have been chosen from Kentucky high school girls and boys who took part in preliminary contests held throughout the state. Prizes of smaller scholarships will be given the runners-up. D. Y. Dunn, president of KEA, will preside at the session, and judges will be selected from educational departments of surrounding colleges.

Eleven college students, representing as many colleges, will compete in the preliminaries of the oratorical contests which will be held in Memorial hall. They are the winners of contests in their respective colleges. Subjects of the orations will be confined to educational problems in the state and nation. Prizes offered by the KEA are: $25 for first, $15 for second, and $10 for third. All candidates will be guests of the KEA. Finals for the contest will be held in Frankfort January 18, and judges will be chosen from judges of the Supreme court of Kentucky. Judges for the preliminaries have not yet been selected.

MORE WORK

In trend with the times, the University is helping to relieve unemployment by procuring, through the CWA, work for its men students. Eleven projects, all of a worthwhile nature, and on which 90 students are now employed, have begun on the campus.

Only those men who are most in need of work are allowed to participate, and included in this group are students in debt to the University. By this means another of the serious problems confronting us as this time is met, and overcome.

Although the employment thus afforded is gratifying, there is still further cause for gladness in that work which has been needed for some time can at last be accomplished. The entire 11 projects, including painting, road construction, lawn grading, wall building, and street widening are decided improvements.

Particularly is the construction of a roadway which will extend from McVey hall to Graham avenue expected to be of benefit, because it will alleviate traffic congestion at that point. With the exception of the widening of Limestone street, a Fayette county project, the program is part of a state wide CWA plan.

To Maury Crutcher, superintendent of University buildings and grounds, and to Dean T. T. Jones, who have made this work possible, we express the appreciation of the student body. It is a fine example of the wonderful spirit existing throughout the country, and should receive the commendation of all.

INTRA OR EXTRA?

A young minister, speaking to a group of University students at a recent meeting of a well-known campus organization, stressed the fact that modern people must snap out of their state of inactivity, forget themselves and plunge into relentless activity if they were to be completely happy. He suggested that the activity take the form of helping others in finding themselves in a time when most people have lost hope in everything.

This suggestion and the allied principles are peculiarly applicable to college students in that a group of university men and women are prone to think only of themselves and their own interests in the mad pursuit of a college degree. Students are not to be chided for this lack of interest in others as they are placed in such a position that, in the event that they forget their own interests entirely, they will pay for the negligence with poor grades and loss of valuable time toward advancement in the University.

However, a balance between their particular interests and work and that of rendering some cooperation in the aiding of their fellow men, is to be suggested to students. This suggestion may be scoffed at by some students as being "preachy" in most of its aspects and more or less trite in essence. Nevertheless, its good qualities are not to be denied in the face of any amount of adverse criticism. The college student is a type of person that will sneer and laugh at such things yet will give his undivided efforts if the worthiness of the cause is pointed out to him.

To some the carrying out of such services is a distinct pleasure while to others the mere mention of such things causes untold pain. Those who apparently feel the physical effects of such work are slow to grasp the real purpose of the endeavor and will not admit of its beneficial results, after they have realized it. To the first group we have only commendation and great respect, to the second group we ask of them that they try to consider others first. The results will doubtless satisfy the most skeptical.

Psychologists concur in the opinion that a person can only be completely happy when he forgets himself and interest himself in outside events and persons. This has been tried and not found wanting. We suggest that you, as students, try this plan and find your real self in others.

K. A. C. U. MEETING

The third educational convocate to be held at the University within the past 30 days will be opened tomorrow morning in Room 111 McVey hall when the representatives of 26 colleges and universities of Kentucky assemble.

The legislators met at the University last month not to discuss educational problems only, but numerous other things that seemed destined to be brought up in the legislature that is now in session. Last Friday the meeting of 141 jobless teachers was brought to a conclusion in the auditorium of the Training school. From the topics of the addresses which have been announced for the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Universities meet we can see that education with regard to our civic problems will again be the central theme.

Always this annual meeting of the 15 senior and 11 junior colleges of our state is important, but this year it is peculiarly so in that our educational institutions are facing a great crisis due to elv conditions which have made it increasingly difficult for the schools to balance their budgets. The fate of our own University and of the normal schools is more or less in the hands of the legislators at Frankfort at present.

The first address of the day, "The North Central Association's Study of Standards," will be delivered by Dr. R. A. Kent, president of the University of Louisville. As to what branch of standards he will discuss we can only conjecture, but inasmuch as the University senate has recently made a change in our scholastic standards this subject should be of especial interest to everyone.

The relations and responsibilities of Kentucky's educational institutions to problems of the state and social order will be the theme of talks to be made by Pres. C. J. Turk of Centre college, the Hon. William B. Harrison, Louisville, and Pres. J. L. Creech of Cumberland college. The remainder of the morning session will be given over to announcements and the appointment of committees and during the early part of the afternoon the reports of these committees will be heard and miscellaneous business transacted.

Following this Pres. W. J. Hutchins of Berea College and Pres. J. L. Harmon of the Bowling Green College of Commerce will further dissertate on the theme of the relation of Kentucky institutions of higher learning to elv problems of the state.

Dr. Paul P. Boyd, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, who is the secretary of the association, has invited all members of the U. K. faculty to attend all or any part of the meeting. It is hoped that as many as can possibly do so will attend and that the entire convocate will be an even greater success than in years past. The Kernel wishes to take this opportunity to welcome all delegates to this conference and to assure them that we, the students, are sincerely interested in the work that they are carrying on.

Jest Among Us

When we begin to worry about where the money for new license tags is coming from, we can't help thinking that maybe we shouldn't have bought that automobile after all.

The many recent marriages may be indications that conditions are getting better, or they may merely be further evidence that our young folk are becoming slightly daffy.

And then there was the ultra-collegiate young man who complained that no one had asked him to work on the CWA campus projects.

If the University senate had only passed the new eligibility rule about three years ago even we might have had a chance for an unhampered social career at college.

Actually, there are two students in the graduating class who have been promised jobs in the near future.

Business in every line is said to be improving, particularly in the bread line.

PETITE PIECE

By LORRAINE LEFERE

A UK stude briefs his activity:
September: Registered. Played tennis. Went to class. Played cards at the house. Went riding. Didn't study, too early.

October: Ditto. Going to study next week.

November: Saw some good football games. Went to a few classes. Played cards. Went home. Went to a dance. Studied a little for mid-semester.

December: Got in on some good bull sessions. Changed my brand of cigarettes. Went home. Ate, slept, and danced. Got a swell new light-er for Christmas. Meant to study, didn't get time. Heard vacation was shorter this year.

January: Cramped!

The end of the semester makes me realize, all of a sudden, that this daily preparation idea is okay. Or to phrase it better: Messed along the usual way. Till there came a final day. Then everything came in a hunk—This study stuff is not the bunk!

And along the same line, wasn't it Socrates, that old stiff-legged codger, who said that the younger generation was going to the dogs? Sure it was. And he elucidated too. Which wasn't necessary, but he said some nasty things about how the children of his day did thus and so, and the children of his old age were letting ideals and morals go to ruin. And during the middle ages there were laws passed in every little kingdom forbidding the children to speak to anyone but members of their families. Reminds me of the person I know whose family was kicked out of court because one of the children of her family told one of the Kaiser's children that her papa was a nasty word.

In the time of Thomas Paine and some of those old war lords, they predicted the fall of civilization with every change of weather. Paine tried to elucidate like Socrates, but they put him in the jug. Too bad, because he was on our side.

They tell me Columbus wondered if the next generation would appreciate the wonderful thing he had done. And Samuel Sewall and Jonathan Edwards spent long hours in STRANGE VICTORY. Sara Teasdale. The Macmillan Company.

This book, issued shortly after the death of the author, contains only 22 of her unpublished poems, since these are all that she wished to have included. In these short lyrics, the poet's emotions are expressed with the utmost simplicity. There is no straining after desire, no uncontrollable passion; these are the heart-songs of a lonely singer who, finding life more bitter than sweet, accepts it with a sort of stoicism. There is here none of the despair, none of the beating against the bars of life that we find in the poetry of Robinson Jeffers. Nor is there the questioning fear of death found in some of the later poems of Amy Lowell. Miss Teasdale is indifferent alike to living and dying when she says

It is all one, the coming or the going.
If I have kept the last essential me.

and
Now without sorrow and without elation
I can lay down my body.

There is none of the impassioned outcry of youth, but the feeling, for all its quietness, is none the less powerful, none the less sincere.

TO THE SEA
Bitter and beautiful, sing no more;
Searf of spindrift strewn on the shore.
Burn no more in the noon-day light.
Let there be night for me, let there be night.

On the restless beaches I used to range
The two that I loved have walked walked with me—
I saw them change and my own heart change—
I cannot face the unchanging sea.

Some of the lyrics are built on regular metres, some on cadence, but the majority on subtly varying metres that give the poems a haunting rhythm.

The title is taken from one of the poems but it is applicable to the entire volume, for the poet seems to find victory in death, a strange victory to be sure, and one that everyone would not understand.—Lois Frazier.

DISSIMULATION
I have put young laughter on my lips
For you to hear, and you're satisfied.
You will not ever think to look inside
And see into what depths my spirit dips.

I waste my time in light banality
For your amusement for I know full well
The way your face would look if I should tell
What thoughts are underneath my rally.

Your clumsy words attempt to find a clue
That might help you to figure out my kind.
How I should like to strike your shallow mind
To speechlessness with what I think of you!
—LOIS FRAZAR

ALTAR
This is the place, the one most sacred spot
Where long ago I learned that love is sweet.
And now it matters not
That I have found just what preparing sermons that kept the Puritan ushers running with their feather-ticklers.

Even now there are those who can get agitated on the subject. Most of them have arrived at the head shaking stage. They simply pause to listen, and wonder. I wish somebody would tell me why the end hasn't come.

A bull session the other day was rather monotonous until somebody introduced the subject of immediate war. Like fireworks intermittently set off, the talk flared about the room. Some of the conversation fell like jewels against the sky. And speaking of conversation, there's nothing like a good old fashioned radical to pep things up.

As for war, here's as good an attitude as any, so long as you don't mean it any more than I:

"It seems that I can never get my sleep any more.
Football games and poker chips to me are just a bore.
I've a little money from a nice little store.
Ho hum, ho hum, I wish there were a war."

Scandal Snickerings

By "DOC"

It is remarkable to note how many eyes are having trouble with their eyes since Dr. Thomas, eye specialist, has been discovered in the dispensary.

We received the following letter the other day. It ran as follows: "You can talk all you want to about Deltaudelta Julius Jagoe putting Mac West's picture over his bed to remind him of a certain girl he dates, but I can go you one better. Billie Carrick has a large stuffed donkey with the red letters Deltaudelta on it, on her bed to remind her of a certain boy she dates."

A certain ed was sleeping in one of Professor Sullivan's classes... Sullivan finally awakened him and asked him how many hours he was carrying... He replied, nonchalantly that he was carrying 16.5

...to which Sullivan replied, "You had better carry more hours next semester as three hours a day is not enough sleep for a man like you!"

We were promised a Xmas present from Kappa Sigma Bill Howe... the largest piece of coal he could find in his father's mines... but we did not receive it... We wonder why he would send us a piece of coal and just why we didn't receive it!

Chi Omega Jean Dawson has changed her ideas about the Triangles and accepted a Beta pin from Henry Turner.

Alphaxi Sarah DeLong is reported to be pinned to Alphagammarho Bob Trigg.

Besides the above letter we received several others since the holidays. Here's one that might interest you:

"Dear 'Doc'—In reading your column of the 15th of December, must say that the one budding romance which you have overlooked for some time is not a budding romance but one in full bloom, and has been for the past two years or longer. (Here he refers to the romance of Louise Otterback and Nevin Gobel). You were right when you said for 'some time'."

"Here's some dope: During the last preliminary boxing matches, Langdon 'Conceded' Hay was outclassing Maurice Well, his short and plump opponent... two rounds went by and as 'Hey Hay' submitted to the pummeling of his seconds, they advised him to 'go in there and knock that guy out.' In all sincerity the naive Hay asked, 'Which hand must I knock him out with?'"

Alphalambdetau Delmar Adams purchased a carton of cigarettes before Xmas and had them (that is, four packs of them) laying before him on the table... One of his pals, passing by, seized them and tossed them to Joe Rupert, who was near by. Like a flash Delmar was on him with blood in his eyes, but the mighty Joe passed them four ways before Delmar was even close. Rupert did not profit. It is rumored that "Hey" Hay, Jack Jean and a few others were the beneficiaries.

Delmar swore that he was going to quit smoking as soon as he finished those he had... but we see he hasn't.

See and hear (mostly hear)—We wonder why Lambdachi John Coover has been newly nicknamed "Curley"... We understand that he is quite bald... Who is the little Zetau that Lambdachi J. B. Wells is tearing his hair over. At the Sige party some very suggestive gifts were given: Louisa Chippis, president of the chapter, was given a baby carriage. Alphadeltatheta Mary Edith Bach was given a shotgun to keep certain boys away—that's what she says, anyway... Mildred Perry received a pair of garters... Mildred Martin was given a pipe as she likes them so well... Zeke Shaver gave Zeta Louise Kuykendall a beer mug and told her to come up

Good tobaccos... real good tobaccos... that's the reason for Lucky Strike's fine, smooth quality. We use only the center leaves of the finest Turkish and domestic tobacco plants. Not the top leaves—because those are underdeveloped. Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We use only the center leaves—because these are the mildest leaves—fully ripe for perfect smoking. Only these choice tobaccos are used to make Luckies—so round, so firm, so fully packed—and no loose ends to spill out. That's why Luckies are always mild and smooth. Occasionally we have the urge to take a rest from our duties as a columnist, and no doubt the readers of this column will welcome a change. So we have asked Jay Lucian, one of our assistants, to conduct this column today. He writes in a pleasing and authoritative manner about several matters which have needed attention for some time.

By JAY LUCIAN

In a rare and brief moment of ambitious fervor I feel like writing something directly opposite to the general policy of most of the columnists of this sheet—that is, to write constructively.

It is appropriate at this time to sound out student opinion as regards having a boxing team to represent the University and to count as a minor sport. The first question is money. Next to football and basketball, boxing could be the biggest paying sport in the University, as it is in all colleges already having it in their schedule. Inter-collegiate meets between Universities have been drawing huge crowds in the East and South. Lately we had an intramural boxing tournament here, and although not advertised hardly at all, it drew quite a large paying crowd and its receipts far outdistanced the trifling cost. It stands to reason that an inter-collegiate contest would draw far more.

Last year the Southern Inter-collegiate Boxing tournament was held at Tulane, Kentucky was invited and the tournament association offered to pay part of the transportation to the meet and all of the expenses during the tournament. However, the school did not wish to expend even the small amount necessary.

Boxing at the University has increased immensely in the last three years as the intramurals show. Boxing courses are now given at the University under the instruction of William Hansen and he is eager to give his time free of charge to instruct, train, and properly coach a boxing team. The ring and equipment are available for the sport. The personnel is the most enthusiastic of the group. The spirit of amateurs is well known, and in addition to the quantity of material that will turn out, there is quality. In spite of the lack of regular training, the intramural matches have shown that there are at least four boxers in the championship class and those who have seen them perform know that they can more than hold their own with the best collegiate boxers in the country.

Boxing is a popular and highly lucrative sport in a majority of universities. A few are Tulane, Louisiana State, West Virginia, Virginia, Cincinnati, and practically all the eastern schools.

If a Kentucky team should enter the Southern Intercollegiate Boxing association, it is more than likely that within a short time the tournament could be held in Lexington and there could be no better place than the Alumni gym. The next tournament will be held in the spring and we are assured Kentucky will receive another invitation. If the Athletic Council agrees to make boxing a minor sport, a team could be easily formed and put in condition without any expense for equipment and for coaching. The only expense would be the partial cost of sending the team to the tournament.

Upon the team's return, an inter-collegiate contest held at the University would more than pay for that initial expense. Any more bouts held later in the semester would all be a profit to the school in money and prestige. A small amount of the money taken in at the intramural tournament would more than start the team on its way towards clear sailing. Many of the participants of the last tournament are willing to stage another such contest to raise funds to create a team if the Athletic Council cannot fit this small, temporary item into its budget. With the money that will be realized from future bouts, the team would more than pay for its sweater awards and incidental expense of having boxing as a minor sport at the University. Whether it will be now remains with the student body.

The wheat adjustment program was handled by the college through its extension division, including the county agricultural agents. This wheat work will add from $200,000 to $250,000 to farmers' incomes.

The college is now handling the tobacco adjustment work, which will increase Kentucky tobacco growers' incomes by probably $10,000,000 this year and next. The corn-hog adjustment program will follow at once and will probably add $5,000,000 to farmers' incomes in this state. This plan will be handled through the county agents, the same as tobacco and wheat. The College of Agriculture also is helping in the dairy adjustment program of the AAA.
